

The banner is a wide, horizontal strip with a dark border. It is divided into three distinct sections. The left section contains a list of items, each with a small square icon to its left. Below this list is a solid dark rectangular box. The middle section features a circular logo on the left, which appears to be a stylized globe or a similar abstract design. To the right of the logo is a block of blue text, with a smaller line of text below it. The right section contains a grid of small, square images, possibly representing a collection of products or a data set.